John Hale
Group President, Central Operations

From a small start-up in 1984 to today's $200 million business unit, Boldt Central Operations has become a source of limitless potential in the Boldt market portfolio — and much of the thanks goes to John Hale.

John has been a long-time member of Boldt's senior management team, playing a number of key roles in Boldt's success since joining in 1982, including vice president, regional manager, chief estimator and project manager.

Responsible today for all operations in the Milwaukee, Madison and Chicago markets, John is an expert in project organization, including preconstruction management, value engineering, scheduling, estimating and contract administration.

His team has a proven record in commercial, institutional and industrial construction, having completed countless projects in health care, manufacturing, alternative energies and higher education, to name a few. Most recently, John has helped Boldt establish itself in Chicago-area health care, higher education and wind energy.

John is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin Building Construction Management program.
