

Leadership Profile

Steve Olson
Group President, Southern Operations

With a deep commitment to open dialogue and collaborative solutions, Steve runs Boldt's southern business unit, leading from Oklahoma City, Oklahoma and the regional office in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

In the nearly 30 years Steve has been in the construction business, his priorities for customers have always been to understand their needs fully, and then commit to providing them with service that surpasses their expectations, to execute work safely and with consistent discipline, and to develop an outstanding team of employees and relationships with partners.

Customers and partners who work with Steve can depend on his proven expertise in a wide range of commercial and industrial markets, including health care, higher education and energy. In addition, he has extensive experience in project engineering, project management, preconstruction services and business development.

A magna cum laude graduate of Bradley University, Steve holds a BS in civil engineering.
